AMERICAN SCHOOL AT ATHENS

THE AMERICAN SCHOOL OF CLASSICAL STUDIES AT ATHENS was founded by the Archaeological Institute of America in 1881. In 1886 it was organized as a corporation under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. It is in great measure supported by the coöperation of leading American Universities and Colleges. No charge for tuition is made to graduates of the supporting institutions. Two Fellowships, with a stipend of $800 each, are awarded on examination; the examinations in 1917 (for the Fellowships of 1917–1918) will be held on March 8–10. The library of the School contains more than 4000 carefully selected volumes.

The Director of the School is Mr. B. H. HILL. In 1916–1917 Professor CHARLES FORSTER SMITH of the University of Wisconsin will hold the annual professorship.

For further information, address the Chairman of the Managing Committee,

Professor JAMES R. WHEELER,
Columbia University, New York, N. Y.

AMERICAN SCHOOL IN JERUSALEM

THE AMERICAN SCHOOL OF ORIENTAL RESEARCH IN JERUSALEM was founded in 1900, and is affiliated with the Archaeological Institute of America. It is supported by a number of American Universities and Theological Seminaries and by private subscriptions. The School offers to properly qualified persons excellent opportunities for the study of the geography, archaeology, and history of Syria, and of the Semitic languages. No charge for tuition is made to graduates of the supporting institutions; other students are required to pay a fee of $25 per annum. A Fellowship, with a stipend of $800, is awarded annually on examination. The Director-elect of the School is Professor WILLIAM J. HINKE, of Auburn Theological Seminary. The Chairman of the Committee on Fellowships is Professor CHARLES C. TORREY, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

SCHOOL OF AMERICAN ARCHAEOLOGY

THE SCHOOL OF AMERICAN ARCHAEOLOGY was founded by the Archaeological Institute of America in 1907, to conduct the researches of the Institute in the American field, direct the expeditions of the branch Societies, and afford opportunities for field work and training to students of archaeology and ethnology. Expeditions for the excavation of ancient American ruins are sent out from time to time. Students of archaeology and ethnology will be admitted to expeditions on satisfying the Director as to qualifications for the work proposed. Terms of admission will be furnished on application.

The Central American Fellowship with a stipend of $600 is awarded annually. Other Fellowships are to be established as soon as funds are secured for their maintenance. The School coöperates in research with the Bureau of American Ethnology and with universities and scientific organizations, both home and foreign. Correspondence is invited with reference to such collaboration in either field or archive work in American subjects.

For further information, address the Director,

EDGAR L. HEWETT,
Santa Fé,
New Mexico.
